DESIGN

DESIGNER Cat Dal, Cat Dal Interiors, 020 7485 4646, catdalinteriors.com.
THE PROPERTY A four-bedroom Fifties terraced mews house in west London.
DESIGN BRIEF To create a warm and functional family kitchen using natural materials and playful touches.
DIMENSIONS 8x6m (in open-plan space)

LAYOUT

This room is on the first floor of a four-storey mews. 'We gutted the property and rearranged the layout, creating space for this open-plan kitchen and living area,' says Cat. 'The priority was to accommodate a three-metre dining table, plus plenty of storage.' A long counter across the width of the room allowed ample space for the remaining living area.

CABINETS

Cat designed Shaker-style cabinets in conjunction with Farnham Furnishers, and had them painted in Pigeon by Farrow & Ball to tone with the mint green flooring. Small appliances are concealed behind sliding doors, while bespoke walnut drawers house oils and spices as well as tableware.

APPLIANCES

Designed for both family living and entertaining, the kitchen has two integrated, ultra-quiet dishwashers, a steam oven and a combination oven. There is also a warming drawer and two fridges. 'I suggested the clients attend a lunch hosted by Miele, where they could see and test the appliances in a domestic setting,' says Cat.

SURFACES

Gentle greys complement the units and floor tiles. 'A Corian worktop is combined with bevelled marble wall tiles for a contemporary, textured look,' says Cat, while brass handles and shelf brackets lift the scheme and add soft industrial elements. 'We also brought the wall tiles up to the level of the extractor for a generous feel.'

FLOORING

'The clients wanted tiles in the kitchen and wooden planks in the living room, so I explored unique, playful ways to combine them,' says Cat. The result is a creative juxtaposition of hexagonal tiles laid to 'bleed' into long, wide oak planks. 'Well sealed, cement tiles are better suited in the kitchen to protect from spills, while the wooden flooring flows naturally into the sitting area.'

STYLING

For this vibrant space, Cat introduced a subtle vintage-industrial style that would encourage diners to linger. Globe pendants make a bold statement, while aged brass elements soften the look. The curved chairs break up the scheme's long lines, while tying in with the hues of the dusky pink sofas, green curtains navy swivel chairs in the living area.
